

Bio

Dr Khang Hee Gan MBChB, DipPaed, FRACP

General Paediatrician and Paediatric Emergency Medicine Specialist

Khang, as he is affectionately known as to his colleagues and patients, is a specialist paediatrician board-certified by the Royal Australasian College of Physicians (RACP) in general paediatrics and paediatric emergency medicine. He graduated medical school from the University of Auckland in 2009 before completing his paediatric training in New Zealand. He completed fellowships in Starship Children's Hospital, New Zealand in 2020 and The Hospital for Sick Children, Canada in 2021. He has been working as a paediatric emergency medicine consultant in Starship Children's Hospital since 2021. In his private paediatric room in Tiny Giants, he sees all children aged from newborns to their 15th birthday with a wide variety of common paediatric issues, including but not exclusive to:

- Neonatal jaundice
- Reflux
- Feeding and growth issues
- Developmental and Behavioural concerns
- Cough and other respiratory issues in childhood
- Asthma and wheezing
- Eczema and skin rashes in children
- Recurrent abdominal pain
- Headaches
- Urinary tract infections
- Seizures
- Toileting issues such as constipation, soiling, and wetting

Other than English, Khang also converses fluently in Mandarin and Bahasa Malaysia.

Khang looks forward to seeing you and your little one(s) in his clinic!