

Bio

Dr Jemila Chadwick BSc, PGCE, DEdCPsych

Educational and Child Psychologist

Jemila has a range of experience working with children, whānau and educators, having worked as an Educational and Child Psychologist in the UK and Aotearoa, New Zealand. Prior to completing her Doctorate in Educational and Child Psychology, Jemila worked as a qualified primary school teacher, and as a teacher aide, in the UK.

As well as offering solution-focused consultations with caregivers and educators, Jemila can assess children and young people using a range of cognitive, dynamic, and educational assessment tools. She is interested in taking a person-centred approach to formulation and intervention. She believes each client is unique and aims to develop in-depth understanding of their individual needs.

She can deliver therapeutic interventions involving children, young people, and their caregivers. Jemila is influenced by a range of approaches including cognitive behavioural therapy, therapeutic story writing, brief solution focused therapy, motivational interviewing, and mindfulness. Jemila is trained in Stepping Stones Triple P Positive Parenting and is a registered Circle of Security Parenting Facilitator.

Jemila can provide professional supervision to Psychologists working in an Educational/School Psychology capacity.
